

Software Licenses

Effective July 1, 2010 our standard desktop and notebook computers will come from Dell with Microsoft Office 2007 Professional and Client Access Software already installed. It is no longer necessary to purchase these licenses on a separate Purchase Order.

NOTE: If you plan to use additional software products you may need to provide Information Systems with the necessary CD media and licenses for these products. Contact your site's Computer Technician from Information Systems to discuss any additional software requirements. This will also require a requisition for processing.
